Ornate Interiors Business Development Manager Sue Clifford explained: "We have held similar taster sessions in the past but demand from homeowners and from the likes of builders, architects and others within the construction sector, has led to us organising these three courses.

Each course lasts a day and will give delegates a comprehensive understanding of the methods and processes required within the three specific areas. Our team of expert craftsmen will be on hand to advise and share their skills with each delegate getting a real hands on opportunity to put what they have learnt into practical use.

We believe these are the first traditional plastering courses of their kind in the UK that are open to the public and participation could well see delegates saving hundreds, if not thousands, of pounds in restoring key features of their properties," added Sue.

Ornate Interiors Ltd carries out lime plastering and manufactures and installs highly decorative fibrous plaster mouldings principally for stately homes, listed buildings, hotels, churches, homes and theatres across the UK, Ireland and mainland Europe and recently picked up the leading industry award, the Humber Silver Salver, for its work on a new Metro station in Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

The company also works on behalf of municipal bodies, architects, contractors and surveyors in compiling restoration surveys of buildings that require repairs.

Anyone interested in finding out more about the courses, which cost £95 per day and includes refreshments, should contact Sue Clifford on Sue@ornateinteriors.co.uk or ring 0113 236 0864.
